

Experienced consultative sales role

Vivid Interactive, based in the heart of Brighton, was established in 1988 and is one of the most experienced digital media consultancy and production companies in the UK. Specialising in the development of digital media for education Vivid has an impressive track record of clients and projects. More detail can be found at:

www.vividinteractive.co.uk

To help us in our growth at an exciting time of expansion we are looking for an experienced salesperson to drive our sales. Candidates must be very familiar with the world of educational publishing and primary and secondary education, have extensive experience of consultative selling and be passionate about digital media for education.

We are taking a very flexible approach to this appointment and are interested in exploring different terms including coming in at director level in return for investment in the company, working on commission only, or on a part salary, part commission basis.

This is a rare opportunity to get involved at a senior level within an established expanding digital media company who are in perfect position to continue to capitalise on the exciting opportunities offered by digital media for education in the 21st century.

Please apply with résumé or letter detailing experience, skills and expectations in the first instance to:

sales@vividinteractive.co.uk

Or for more details call

- Financial Director Gill Strawford on 01225 864468
- Managing Director Mick Landmann on 01273 688700

Vivid Interactive is committed to operating ethically, with minimal ecological footprint, and to providing equal opportunities.